Wedding Went On.

Special to The Evening World.) WATERBURY, Conn., March 21. The wedding of Mary Therrian Daury, heroine of three previous nuptial adventures, and Josef Koplis, whom she calls her "Piltdown Pa tootie," which took take in Police Headquarters yesterday, was halted for five minutes while the bride conducted a frantic search for her Pomeranian poodle. Finally she located the dog in a prisoner's cell and, holding it in one hand and her six-foot. cave-man hubby by the other, she was given in marriage by Police Sergt. John Brickey and Prosecuting Attorney Emil Hummel tied the knot. Mary had just received her third divorce and went to the City Hall to find a Justice. Not finding one there she went to Police Headquarters, when her quest was successful. Her three former weddings were performed in churches and didn't pan out well, so Mary thought a charge of atmosphere might bring blessings on her fourtl

What a Day for Kiddies When Peter Rabbit Was Born!

THORNTON BURGESS, when his son was left motherless, planned to send the young man to live with relatives in Chicago. "But papa," protested the little fellow, "who will tell me stories of Peter Rabbit and his friends of the Green Forest, at bed time?" And right there the Bedtime Stories were born. "Tell you what," said the elder Burgess to Burgess Junior, "I'll write and send you a story every day."

The White Watchers

By Thornton W. Burgess

Much may be gained by sitting still If you but have the strength of will. -Jumper the Hare

Jumper the Hare crouched at the foot of a tree in the Green Forest and a little way from him on a stump sat Whitey the Snowy Owl. Had you been there to see them both would have appeared as white as the snow around them, unless you had looked vary closely. Then you might have seen two narrow black lines back of Jumper's head. They were the tips of his ears, for these 'remain black. And near the upper part of the white mound, which was Whitey, you might have seen two round yellow spots, his eyes.

Don't think that as a story teller you are in a class with Aesop,
